Overview

Structure

Customer Self Service eCommerce Platform websites are built around an overall Theme, with Templates defining each page's structure, and Widgets defining the content. Layers are then used to dictate who sees what content throughout the site.

Check out the knowledge base pages below for a more detailed explanation of each component:

- What is the Theme Layout?
- What is a Template?
- About Widgets
- What is a Layer?

Now let's look at an example of all of the parts coming together:

- The Theme Layout renders the sticky header, including search, category menu, and breadcrumbs. The footer is also rendered by the Theme Layout.
- In between the header and footer, the Product Detail Template is in use. This template renders the product detail page on your website.
- The Product Detail template contains several Widgets, each one responsible for a particular bit of content. Examples here include Product Purchase Details and Product Description Field.
- A Layer can be applied at the widget level to restrict its display based on a user's role or other conditions (not illustrated below).
