

Blank Approval Limits to be ignored

Sites on earlier versions (who were using advanced order approvals) reported issues for users who had no approval limits set. Instead of allowing these users to place orders normally, the system was treating blank limits as zeros and asking for order approval.

This issue has now been fixed; where users have no limits set, the system will essentially ignore the approval requirement and let the user proceed to order.