

Credit Card Fee Override for Account Payments

If your site charges credit card fees, you can now set rate overrides for nominated Roles and/or Users for account payments.

Here's an example of a use case: set an override for your team member in charge of Account Payments. They can then discount the surcharge rate for certain Customers or provide an incentive for them to pay off old invoices.

For more information, see Credit Card Override for Account Payments.